London papers of the 13th inst., contain a full report of the final and farewell conference between the American evangelists, Moody and Sankey, and the ministers of religion. The following is from the Daily Post:

The body of the large hall, which seats about 3,000, was reserved for the clergy and ministers; the side seats and galleries were chiefly occupied by the wives and daughters of the ministers. It was stated that there were about 700 ministers present at the close of these meetings. It was stated that there were about 700 ministers present and that of these 188 were of the Church of England. The meeting having been opened with praise and prayer, Mr Moody said that during the whole of the crowded meetings they had had on the 123 days they had been preaching in London, he had great to say that not one single accident had occurred.

The Rev Dr Bonner, of Glasgow, after expressing the pleasure it gave him of being permitted to be present on this occasion and having witnessed the great work accomplished in London and he felt constrained to bear his testimony to the marvellous and blessed results which had attended the labors of the revivalists throughout the whole united kingdom. He wished, however, to speak more particularly of the lasting results which were now being witnessed in Glasgow. There had been gathered into the churches there no less than 7000 souls, who were now under the immediate supervision of the ministers. The Rev. Mr. Billing of Holy Trinity, Islington, in the course of his observations, said that with all the success which had been seen it would be premature to attempt to form an estimate of the result. There was not a night now, but what good fruit was being gathered from the work at the Agricultural Hall. He believed that the real work for the ministers had hardly yet begun.

The Rev. Lauon Conway said that before he took any part in the movement he first asked himself, was there any Bible precedent for welcoming two unordained preachers? He found there was. He saw a parallel in the case of St. Paul and Apollos. Like Mr. Moody, Apollos was one who felt that he must go out and preach, and in the footsteps of travels they see that he came across the footsteps of Paul, and as they read that while Paul planted, Apollos watered, and God gave the increase. Well, when he saw that precedent, and when he found, as he did, the brethren from Edinburgh and Glasgow writing to the brethren in London and asking them to receive these two honored servants of the Lord, he felt it was his duty to do so. His personal testimony was this, that many, very many of the higher classes had been blessed through their mission, and he trusted that the blessing of God would follow them wherever they went. The Rev. Robert Wilson of Crown Street Chapel; the Rev. Thomas Richardson of the East End; the Rev. Mr. Taylor, Presbyterian, of West Dulwich; Dr Jobson, Rev. Mr. Chown, Mr. Henry Varley, Rev. W. H. Aiken, and Lord Shaftsbury also bore testimony to the excellent results of the work performed by the Evangelists.

Mr. Moody said that as the time had now arrived for them to say farewell he, in compliance with numerous requests, would ask Mr. Sankey to sing the hymn "There were ninety and nine." Mr. Sankey, who was very visibly affected, said that before he sang this hymn in England for the first time he sincerely wished to thank all the many friends they met here. He hoped too, that they would all meet again to sing these beautiful hymns where there would be no more parting and no more breaking up. He then sang with great tenderness and feeling, but was so much affected that his voice nearly failed him at every verse. Mr. Moody, in taking his final farewell, was also much affected. All he could do was to say that he sincerely thanked the numbers and crowds for receiving them so kindly. The kindness of the committee had completely broken his heart. He wished to thank the stewards, the reporters and the press generally for their kindness. He had made many mistakes and committed faults, but none had been inclined to hurt him. He wished to thank all the workers, the policemen, too, he must thank for the assistance they had rendered, and the kind way in which they had done it. He closed by asking them to "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." He then and firmly quitted the platform, evidently determined to avoid an ovation. There was a rush to the ante-rooms to shake hands with him, but he seemed to have left with the utmost rapidity, for it was immediately announced that he had gone. A proposal was made to raise a subscription to present Messrs. Moody and Sankey with a testimonial. The Chairman of the Committee said that such a proposition, he knew, would be most hurtful to the revivalists, and it must not be proceeded with. The proceedings then closed with the benediction.

STATE NEWS.

A correspondent of the Lewiston Journal in New Poland, writes that despite the cutworm, the apple trees have leaved out again, and that quite a crop of apples may be expected.

The Journal understands that arrangements have been made for a survey of the proposed railroad from Lewiston to Augusta, as soon as the hay crop is secured.

He was taken to Portland, from his residence, Mr. Graffam add he is about sixteen years of age.

Knox.

James E. Begg of Rockland was bitten on the calf of the leg, last Monday, by a large dog. The bite was severe one and Mr. B was much alarmed lest it might cause hydrophobia. To guard against this, he heated a piece of iron to red heat and applied it to the wound, holding it there till it became nearly cool and then applying it again. The wound now presents a ghastly appearance, and its severity, together with nervous prostration caused by this "heroic" treatment and fear of hydrophobia, had made Mr. Begg so ill that he is confined to the house.

The Rockland Free Press says it is glad to state the fact that the two girls sent to the Industrial School from that city and who at first had to be watched to prevent their making their escape, are now happy and contented, and no inducement which could be offered them there would be sufficient to carry them back to their old life.

The Gazette says that Mr. Wendell P. Elwell, Deputy Warden of the State Prison on the first of January last made a canvass of the convicts of this institution for the purpose of seeing how many of them were willing to leave off the use of tobacco, and have furnished to them some good weekly newspaper instead. Sixty-four were found to agree to the arrangement and live thus far held to the agreement.

John Sullivan son of Timothy Sullivan of Hurricane Island, was accidentally drowned at that place Friday. He was about six years old.

THE HEAVY RAINS

Great Damage to Crops.

Rivers Rising Rapidly.

Railroads Flooded and Badly Damaged.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3 The rain continued during the most of last night. The mercury has fallen to about 60°, and the wind is from the northwest. But it is still very cloudy and threatening. The four principal railroads running east from here are either flooded in places or damaged, so that trains cannot run, and most of the roads in this state are similarly situated.

Rivers Rising.

The river has risen three feet since last night, and is now rising at the rate of two inches per hour. Accounts from the upper Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois say that they are all rising rapidly, and all tributaries within 200 miles have greatly swollen—many of them pouring out floods of water.

Great Damage to Crops.

Despatches from various parts of this state say that immense damage has been done to the crops and farm property. In spring River Bottom alone the damage to farmers is estimated at a million and a half of dollars. The Osage, Gasconade and Black water rivers are higher than ever—in fact all the streams in the State are at flood height and causing great destruction of property Turnpikes are also being washed away in places and travel impeded. There has probably never been so widely extended damage done in the State before.

Great Rise of the River at Marietta, Ohio.

WASHINGTON, Aug 2 The Observer at Marietta, O., reports to the Signal Office in this city that a heavy storm passed there last night, three inches of rain falling. The river at 2 P. M., was thirty-three feet by the guage, and rising five inches an hour. It has risen eleven feet in the last twenty hours and is still raising. At thirty-two feet in the guage the farms on the river bank are overflowing.

Great Damage in the Vicinity of Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug 2. The continued rain storm in this section since Saturday night has been very damaging to the railroads West and South of this point. The White River has continued to rise slowly since Friday evening Indianola on the west side of the river is all afloat and an immense amount of damage has been done to property on the west side of this city and in the bottom lands along the White River The Vincennes Railroad has suffered severely

In the neighborhood of Martinsville the track is submerged for miles between that city and Bloomington; the Vandalia road suffered the loss of a new iron bridge near Cloverdale, one end of the bridge being lowered. The track is also considerably damaged at several points The Indianapolis & St Louis road is badly damaged at St. Mary's and Danville—a portion of the trestle work at the latter point being washed away The Western division of the Indianapolis Cincinnati & Lafayette road suffers from the washing away of the road bed at Crooked Creek, a few miles west of this city The Indianapolis, Peru & Chicago road has the bridge at Noblesville damaged

The road bed of the Indianapolis Bloomington and Western was slightly damaged. The Jeffersonville, Madison and Indianapolis road is considerably injured at Rockford and Columbus. No trains have arrived to-day on the Vincennes

The Scioto Overflows its Banks—Corn Fields Ten Feet Under Water

COLUMBUS Aug 3 About midnight last night the Scioto river left its bed and broke over a tract of ground south of the city, burying extensive corn fields 10 feet under water. The waters then rushed over a large brick yard and rose to the first story of the houses occupied by workmen at the yard, necessitating the removal of the women and children The men waded out to high ground with difficulty, the whole party of 75 being saved without serious accident. Considerable damage was done to property in the neighborhood.

The Water Falling.

The river fell three feet to-day. Reports from along the line of the Hocking Valley Railroad show that the loss to the growing crops and wheat stock by water will be very great It is impossible to ascertain the damage to the roadbed until the water subsides No bridges have as yet been washed away.

"LET'S PLAY."

Oh the blessed and wise little children,
What sensible things they say!
When they can't have the things they wish for,
They make others and cry, "Let's play!"

Let's play" that the chairs are big coaches,
And the sofa a railroad car,
And that we are all taking journeys
And traveling a great far

Let's play" that this broken old china
Is a dinner set rare and fine,
And our tin cups filled with water
Are goblets of milk and wine!

"Let's play" every one of our clothes
Is alive and can go to walk
And keep up long conversations
With all if we want to talk

Let's play" that we live in a palace,
And that we are the queens and kings!
Let's play" we are birds in three tops,
And can fly about on wings.

Let's play" that we are school keepers,
And grown people come to our school
And punish them all most soundly
If they break out a single rule

Oh the blessed and wise little children
What sensible things they say,
And enough to be as happy as they are,
If we would be happy their way

Without waste, twixt not having and having,
When we have lived on our day!
Let us borrow the children's watchword—
The magical watchword "Let's play!"
